

PULLING AWAY

Where are you going
What are you welcoming
Why are you throwing out all the truth that you believe
Why are you searching
Why are you reaching out for
Something that you already have

Willingly you're letting it unravel
As you scorn your destiny and watch it waste away
Casually just slipping through your fingers
Full of much dismay
How I wish you'd stay

Where are you heading
What are you running to
Why are you disregarding everything you know is true
Why are you pressing
Why are you taking chances
Risking losing everything you have

Carelessly you're letting it unravel
Nonchalantly acting as if everything is fine
Easily it slips right through your fingers
Wasting precious time
You don't seem to mind

(Sax Solo)

Knowingly you're letting it unravel
Diving into self-absorption seems to be your goal
Flippantly life's slipping through your fingers
Is it worth your soul
Just to have control

What are you gaining
What is your real direction
Why are you entertaining enemies that will destroy you
Why are you wounding
Why are you condescending
Why have you let it come to this

Carefully I try to not unravel
Walking very cautiously when I am in your midst
Candidly I'm reaching for your fingers
You seem so remiss
As you just dismiss
Everything you gave for this

And you just keep
Pulling away
Pulling away
Pulling away...